THEATRE TECHNICAL SUPPORT

The days and times booked must include time for rigging the lights, fitting up of the set and rehearsal time. Because of the demands on the space, get-outs should normally be done immediately after the last performance when Technical Support will be available until 23:30 hours. If it cannot realistically be completed within this time, it then it must be booked for the following half day and paid for at an arranged fee.

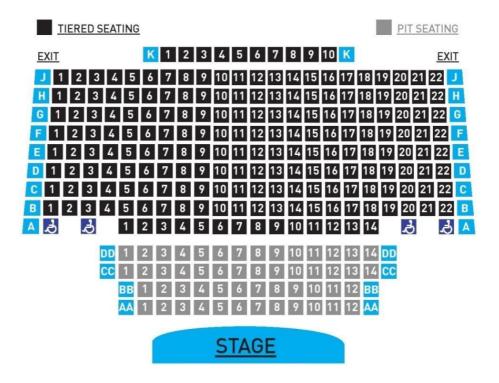

When the Theatre is being used a Stantonbury Theatre technician must be on site to supervise and assist. The theatre has a limited number of staff and must comply with statutory health and safety regulations, and accordingly, Technical Support is not normally available outside of the hours outlined in the table below.

Hirers are required to provide their own lighting or sounds operators. If the theatre provides an operator(s) then a charge (+VAT) will be made.

Non-Performance Days	Monday - Sunday from 10:00 to 22:00 hours The building must be vacated by 22:00 hours so get-ins and rehearsals must finish in sufficient time to ensure this
First Performance Day	Monday - Sunday from 10:00 hours until one half hour after the end of the performance (excepting Get out – see below)
Next Consecutive Performance Day(s)	When there is more than one performance day, during the remaining performance day(s) in the run, the theatre will be available from a pre-arranged 'call time' – not usually more than two hours before 'curtain up' – to one half hour after the end of the performance.
Get Out	Get-outs should be done immediately, and as quickly as possible. After the only or last performance when Technical Support will be available - but not beyond 23:30 hours. If it cannot realistically be completed within this time it then it must be booked for the following half day and paid for at an arranged fee.

If Hirers overrun their time, 'out of hours' charges will be made per hour or part thereof (+VAT).
